Friends Expands Statewide

The Friends of New Hampshire Drug Courts, formerly the Friends of Grafton County Drug Court, now offers services throughout the state to help enhance all established and developing state drug court programs. As a statewide nonprofit, the Friends will raise private contributions to provide drug courts with incentives and help fund education and training programs.

Governor Maggie Hassan lent her support and stated, "Expanding drug courts is a critical part of a comprehensive approach to combat the heroin and substance abuse crisis, and I applaud the Friends of New Hampshire Drug Courts and their commitment to partnering with state and local governments to support drug courts."
